Dear Valued Mother Parkers Customers,

There continue to be significant increases in the input costs of both the raw and non-raw materials that comprise our products. Of significant note, green coffee has hit pricing levels not seen since 2014, which is further impacted by significant global freight increases. Other impacted inputs include, but are not limited to; tea, packaging, sugar, labor and energy.

At Mother Parkers, we endeavor to manage input costs to provide our customers with pricing stability through continuous improvement initiatives and efficiency. Given the continued sharp rise of input costs, we will be increasing our pricing effective January 1st, 2022. Products are impacted in varying degrees and your account manager will provide your new pricing on the impacted products.

The near-term outlook for green coffee costs points to further increases. As such, we have proactively locked in our green coffee requirements for the short term to help provide our customers with pricing stability during that timeframe.

Your account manager will contact you with updated price lists and be available to assist you with this transition and any questions that you may have.

Sincerely,

Kim Cunningham
Chief Commercial Officer
